A black and white photograph of a dense forest. Tall, slender trees with thick trunks line a path that leads into the distance. The canopy is thick with leaves, creating a dappled light effect on the ground. Two small figures of people are visible on the path in the lower center. A rectangular stamp is visible in the upper right quadrant of the image.

On the granite face of 6,000-foot Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills of South Dakota, carved in dimensions symbolic of greatness, are memorialized four American Presidents who upheld the rights and dignities of the common man. Boldly American in size and scope, Mount Rushmore portrays through these likenesses the beginnings and trials of the Nation during its first century and a quarter. Washington represents the fight for liberty and the birth of the Republic. Jefferson is the expression of this country's political philosophy. Lincoln embodies the preservation of the Union, and Theodore Roosevelt depicts the expansion and conservation of the Nation as it is today.

President Abraham Lincoln in 1864 signed an Act of Congress granting the Yosemite Valley and the Mariposa Grove of Giant Sequoias to the State of California to "be held for public use, resort, and recreation . . . inalienable for all time." Thus was created the first "state park" in America and the initial step in the development of national parks. This farsighted action of a century ago makes it possible for you to enjoy this magnificent area today.
